IN REMEMBRANCE

Twenty years ago, these were names we spoke of in awe. Their stature, their talent, their fame made them seem like stars in a distant horizon. That so many would go on to become friends, encouraging us every step of the way, was unimaginable. But that is exactly what happened. Through our first hesitant efforts, they were our cheerleaders, guiding us, redirecting our steps, bringing others into the fold so that as years went by, our tiny stream became a river bringing succour to over a thousand disadvantaged cancer patients.

In a world where you can be anything, be kind. And they were. We were invited into their homes and studios to select works, casually handed over expensive paintings, our phone calls received immediate responses. We were always amazed at the kindness shown to us. Today we wish to acknowledge that kindness and to say that we could not have done it without you.

This year's catalogue is in remembrance of all these wonderful artists who are no longer with us. It was an honour to have met and interacted with you. It is a mark of the relationships we have forged that the collection includes four works that have been donated by family members. A son, a daughter, a wife. We too held your loved ones in high esteem and miss them today.

ABOUT CANCER PATIENTS AID ASSOCIATION (CPAA)

Cancer Patients Aid Association (CPAA) is a non-profit organisation, established in 1969, that addresses cancer as a health problem through its distinctive philosophy of 'Total Management of Cancer', which includes:

- Raising awareness through lectures with the aim of presenting a realistic picture about cancer, its causes and treatment, encouraging prevention wherever possible and helping to remove stigma and integrate cancer patients into a normal life with their families and society.
- Promoting early detection through screening for common cancers-breast, cervical, oral, prostate and blood, creating systems so that such facilities are available to marginalised populations that have no access to them and are often those that most need them.
- Providing appropriate holistic care for patients from financial and material to psychological, counselling and guidance.
- Rehabilitating cancer patients and their family members by providing appropriate prostheses, reskilling to ensure self-sufficiency and self-esteem through and after the cancer journey.
- Advocacy to impact and change government policy for affordable drugs and anti-tobacco legislation.
- Research on psychosocial aspects of cancer and its effect on patients and their family members and translational research into protective genes and lack thereof that protect individuals from contracting cancer or increase their risk.

You can read more about CPAA on our website cancer.org.in.
